Pennsylvania Homecare Association Selects Nevvon to Build and Manage Its Next-Generation Learning Management System

Harrisburg, PA (July 24, 2024) – The Pennsylvania Homecare Association (PHA) is thrilled to announce its strategic partnership with Nevvon, an industry leader in e-training solutions for the healthcare sector. Through this collaboration, Nevvon will power and support the association’s free online training platform, My Learning Center, which offers more than 80 on-demand training courses designed specifically for direct care workers, home health aides, and family caregivers.

“We are thrilled to partner with Nevvon,” said Mia Haney, CEO of the Pennsylvania Homecare Association. “This collaboration enriches our Pennsylvania-specific training courses by incorporating the advanced capabilities of Nevvon’s premier Learning Management System. Our training courses will continue to be free to any individual seeking home care education, but will now feature multiple upgrades including additional course content, language translations, improved navigation, enhanced reporting for employers, and more.”

My Learning Center will offer a range of training, upskilling, and compliance management content designed to empower caregivers and home health aides. Course content is freely available to anyone looking to learn or enhance their home-based care skills.

James Cohen, CEO of Nevvon, expressed his excitement about the partnership. “We are super excited to work with PHA to support its members and caregivers. Our goal is to provide a seamless and flexible training experience that addresses the unique needs of home care providers across Pennsylvania.”

Comprehensive Support for Members and Caregivers

The collaboration between PHA and Nevvon aims to deliver high-quality training solutions that are accessible anytime, anywhere, and on any device. This initiative will enhance caregiver competency, support career growth, and ultimately improve client care.

A Unified Approach to Training

This partnership supports PHA's vision of being the premier association driving and influencing the provision of home care services across Pennsylvania. It also sets the foundation for working with Nevvon on additional initiatives that support PHA's members and caregivers. "Training is a vital offering of our workforce development efforts at the Pennsylvania Homecare Association. It ensures that caregivers and direct care workforce are well-equipped with the latest knowledge and skills to provide the highest quality of care. Investing in their education not only enhances their professional growth but also significantly improves the lives of those they serve," said Mia Haney, CEO.
